

Short CV

	GANZLEBEN, CATHERINE
	Acting Head of Group on air pollution, noise, chemicals and environment and health
	European Environment Agency
	European Union
	At the European Environment Agency, Dr Catherine Ganzleben is responsible for strands of work on a range of environmental risks to health, including air pollution, noise and chemicals, as well as ecosystem services and human well-being. Catherine was a Senior Policy Advisor at Milieu Ltd. for five years, working on environment and public health issues. Prior to that, Catherine worked at the UN Institute for Training and Research, delivering technical assistance in support of multilateral environmental agreements on chemicals. Catherine has a post doctorate from the UN Institute of Advanced Studies in Tokyo and a Doctorate from the University of Oxford. She has also worked for the European Environmental Bureau and the International Institute for Sustainable Development.